PITSS America's Oracle Development Platform Tool Earns High Marks for Automation and Performance

Troy, Michigan. July 14, 2009—PITSS America, an Oracle Forms and Reports specialist firm, is saving companies years of man hours with their leading flagship product PITSS.converter. The tool assists with lifecycle management for legacy Oracle Forms and Reports Applications.

If a business is not currently using 10g Release 2 of Oracle Forms and Reports, they are running on unsupported technology. Unsupported software means they are not getting the support from Oracle as well as the critical security patches required for many businesses and governmental entities. In addition older Forms and Reports versions are not "certified" to work with the latest Database Releases.

On the market for more than 10 years, PITSS.converter has a proven track record with Oracle Forms and Reports customers. PITSS.converter uses a comprehensive set of functions to perform cost effective and efficient changes on custom Oracle Forms and Reports applications and automates the upgrade/migration process up to 100% -- reducing time to benefit to an absolute minimum. The unique PITSS.converter repository provides an ideal platform to re-engineer Oracle Forms and Report applications to meet the requirements of today's state of the art software applications architectures.

According to PITSS America President Martin Disterheft, "At first our customers can't believe that we can help them so quickly. A job that could take years of man hours to upgrade can be done in 5 days. What's more, by upgrading their applications we can eliminate any security vulnerabilities to their business."

"In our case, the PITSS technology saved us significant time and money for our migration from Oracle Forms 6i to 10g. The whole conversion took only about three days versus the eight months we had estimated to do a manual migration. If you're an Oracle shop, PITSS is definitely the way to go."
